Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

The emancipation and rise of Woman dates from the fall of Whiskers. Delilah and Samson are symbolic. Now that Nevada City is abloom with a great variety of whiskers and on every beautyrest the debate goes on far into the night, whether or not the beard shall grow, it is time that this issue should be considered gravely.

Whiskers were the first vegetables cultivated by man. In cave days a man's strength of brawn and character was measured by the length of his beard. As civilization gradually encraoched on primitive tribes, whiskers played an enormous and important role. They became sanctified. "By the Beard of the Prophet" was once a very mean cuss word. Their effect, in general, was to keep the fair sex jolly well subjugated and at the same time fascinated. The veil of the prophet, of which we hear so much, was in fact his whiskers. Women in the Old Testament times found them irresistable. A man with long luxuriant whiskers was inevitably popular with the women. He could marry as many as he chose, and no mangy bearded, or short haired fellow in the tribe dared question his right. We suspect that Esau was expelled from his home and tribe by his dear old dad, not because he had done anything especially wrong, but because in his altogether he was clothed from head to foot in whiskers, constituting therefore a challenge and a menace to the peace and happiness of tribal leaders.

Oldsters of today will recall the Mormons. They grew mighty manes. They knew no scissors, much less razors. They just naturally attracted women, who, lured by the same curiosity which prompted Bluebeard's wives to open the secret door, married the hirsute followers of Joseph Smith to find out just what kind of creature it was that lurked behind the whiskers.

In pre-Revolutionary days, following a fad of the English court, men took to shaving The Father of his country was clean shaven. But after the British had been licked and the United States of America had been declared independent, it was noticable that many women believed they had been freed by the same sword and musket that had freed the men. They became uppity and difficult. Our male ancestors knew instinctively what to do in these circumstances. They retreated in good order to cover. They grew and lay in ambush behind their whiskers again. And once again women assumed their proper place in the home.

The mark of a good wife in the Forties, Fifties and Sixties was a woman who fondly combed and curried her husband's whiskers and kept them clean and flowing. The mark of a termagant, a very rare phenomenon in those days, was a woman who flew into a terrible temper and wrapping her little hands in her good man's beard tried to tear his head from his shoulders.

After the Civil War whiskers became diversified. Men tried different styles to suit their type of beauty. General Burnsides gave his name to the flowing side chops that figure so much in old family albums. There was the Imperial, closely resembling the chin adornment of the male goat. The Imperial begot a degenerate offspring known as the Goatee. The Van Dyke was imported from abroad from Paris colonies or artists too poor to buy razors. It covered the face fairly well, but the chin area still grew the Imperial or the Goatee. The Shoe Brush was a refinement of the full bushed whiskers of the frontiersmen. With the advent of church socials and husking bees men discovered that the full bush beard was a handicap at the table. Gravy and bits of food were frequently lost. So it became the style to shave all of the map around the mouth, leaving a clearing where food and drink could be assimulated without handicaps. This fashion left a stiff fringe of beard round the jaws and under the chin. This was a double advantage, for the ugly gymnastics of the Adam's apple were thus concealed.

Some antiquarians date the first discovery of sanitation in American history to the milk strainer, but erudite students now generally attribute the introduction of the Shoe Brush whiskers as the first step in sanitary uplift. The Shoe Brush was popular in California as soon as razors began to come around the Horn. Other specially California styles were the Grandee, in which the moustache joined smoothly into the side chops. These were permitted to broom out, giving the male map the wide handsome appearance of a tom-cat. The Grandee, of course, was adopted from the Spanish dons, and another early beard style was the Don Gaspar de Portola, which closely resembled the Imperial but was permitted to grow longer. In high winds it was tucked into the waistcoat.

In the Seventies a wave of camp meetings swept over the land. From the camp meeting was evolved the Deacon. From Maine to California Deacon whiskers spread like the wild broom along our moutatin road sides There were infinite varieties of this famous beard but one characteristic was common—the smooth shaven upper lip. Ministers set the fashion for their congregations. Besides affording abundant cover, the Deacon whiskers offered special advantages in coffee drinking and kissing. Where kissing had formerly pleasure. Piety and romance were wedded.

In the Gay Nineties women came out of the bushes, so to speak. They grew tired of living with whiskers. The most beautiful women began to marry bare faced men. In a few years all facial brush had been cut. Man capitulated and hauled down the flag of his masculinity. Men's faces reflected their thoughts, and women perceiving for the first time what men thought about, more and more took to the divorce courts. Many men who really loved their wives cultivated a poker face, but it was no substitute for whiskers.

It is hoped that this Whisker revival in Nevada City, done in the spirit of fun, will arouse in the mind of man the thought of his lost empire. It is hoped that, once having resumed his natural charm, his bush, behind which he can retreat for peace of mind and meditation, many a man will be wise and courageous enough to keep, to cherish and to defend the sacred badge of his manhood.

ASSOCIATES AND FRIENDS HONOR R. L. P. BIGELOW

R. L. P. Bigelow, supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest area, today having reached the age limit, retires from the Forest Service. Many honors are being shown him. Marks of appreciation both from his comrad and fellow officers in the service, and from the hundreds of friends he has made in his long residence and administration of his office in Nevada City, are being showered upon him.

Last night it was the Nevada City Rotary club which gave a dinner in his honor at Gene's Cafe. The event was a "ladies night" and many old friends and neighbors of Mr. Bigelow joined in the merry festivity.

In the assembly room of National Forest Service headquarters in San Francisco last Saturday over 200 Forest Service men gathered to give Mr. Bigelow, J. A. Barrett, assistant forester of the regional office, and Hale Mace, forest ranger of the Sierra National Forest, who had also reached the age limit, an ovation befitting the occasion.

Mr. Begilow was presented with an oil painting of the beautiful Sierra Buttes, the most outstanding promontory of his wide domain. He also received a volume of letters written by his associates in the service.

This meeting was followed by a luncheon in the Town club at which he and the other retiring officials were guests of honor.

OFFSIDER FINED $15

CAMPTONVILLE, April 29.—Miss Loretta O'Connor of Marysville, who was cited by Traffic Officer A. J. Ponta last week on a charge of having no operator's license and being on the wrong side of the road, entered a plea of guilty Tuesday in the local justice court. Judge Acton M. Cleveland dismissed the charge of not having an operator's license upon presentation of license in court. A fine of $15 was assessed for being on the wrong side of the highway.

SUBSCRIPTION FUND TO REHABILITATE FAMILY

CAMPTONVILLE, April 30.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wood located in the upper town was completely destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The fire started in the attic from a defective lue and when discovered by Mrs. Woods the whole roof was in flames. A few of the WPA crew who were working near town responded, all the rest of the men being at a distance out of town, but nothing could be done to save the building. Very little of the contents were saved, and the family dog, chained to the porch, was badly singed before being rescued.

Woods, who was working in the gravel pot on the local WPA project was informed of the disaster, returning in time to find all his possessions lost. The building was owned by Mrs. Rachael M. Labadie, who had no insurance on the property. The loss is estimated at about $800 for the building in addition to the household effects of the unfortunate family.

On suggestion of Louie E. Bullington a subscription list was started Friday for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wood to assist them in re-establishing themselves in a home after they had lost everything when the house in which they resided burned down Friday morning. It is also expected to provide them with clothing.

Up to Saturday noon the list read as follows: Louie E. Bullington $1.00; Lola B. Cleveland, $1.00; Myron Pauly, $1.00; Meek Mercantile Co., $1.00; Acton M. Cleveland, $1.00; M. R. Carlson, $1.00; David Lewis, $1.00; W. M. Brown, $1.00; B. Spencer, $1.00; James F. Knick, $5.00; F. B. Hanson, $1.00; J. B. Titus, $1.00; Supervisor W. J. Mellon, $2.00.

TRI-COUNTY WOMEN PREPARING SOUVENIRS

The tri-county unit, consisting of Nevada, Placer and ElDorado counties, of the California Federation of Women's clubs are making preparation for the state convention which will be held on May 16. That day is to be marked by a gathering at Marshall's monument at Colma. It is expected that 260 members of the California Federation will be present.

The tri-county unit is preparing souvenirs for each woman there present. The souvenirs will be small neat boxes containing a collection of ore specimens, petrified wood and limestone.

STUDENTS X-RAYED IN MEDICAL TEST

X-Rays have been taken this week of the lungs of 28 boys and girls of the Nevada City high school. These photographs will be sent to an expert in San Francisco who will read them and their report to Dr. B. W. Hummelt who through the school authorities will communicate the results to the parents of the students. The X-rays were taken of the lungs of the students who showed a positive reaction to the preliminary tuberculin test. The positive reaction does not indicate that the person has tuberculosis but merely shows that the germ is present and may be latent or active. The X-ray will complete the diagnosis.

The tests of the high school students have been made possible through funds in the hands of the local Red Cross authorities received from the sale of Christmas seals.

CHARGE AGAINST TIBERT AND SISTER DISMISSED

Sheriff Carl Tobiassen was advised yesterday by Chief of Police Lou M. Gammell of Reno that the district attorney there has dismissed the charges against Arthur Tibert and his sister Alberta Tibert, who were accused of having kidnapped Tibert's young daughter on the streets of Reno. It developed that Tibert had a court order issued by a Los Angeles judge giving him custody of his child. The Tiberts were out on bail, after having spent Sunday night in the county jail here following their arrest on a warrant from Reno.

SCOUTS' SPRING CAMPOREE TO BE HELD IN NEV. CO.

The Spring Camporee of the Tahoe Area Council to be held May 16 and 17 in Nevada County will rate the patrols eligible to attend the Northern California Camporal at Sacramento October 10 and 11 according to a decision made at a recent meeting of Northern California Scout Executives.

In order to give additional practice in patrol camping many of the Tahoe Council districts are holding district camporees under the direction of their district commissioners.

Oscar A. Kirkham, Associate Regional Scout Executive of Salt Lake City, will be present to take part in the Saturday evening campfire, and to take charge of the Sunday morning Scout service. He has asked to meet with all Scout leaders also Sunday morning. The selection for the site is being left to George Schrader of Nevada City and Harry Goudge of Grass Valley.

Each patrol will present themselves at 4 p. m. Saturday prepared to go into camp overnight exemplifying outdoor activities of scouting including organization, tenting, cooking and campfire programs. Closing ceremonies and awards will conclude the 24 hour camp. From 25 to 40 patrols are expected to participate for the opportunity to go to the Northern California Camporal at Sacramento.

WHISKERINO CLUB WILL BE ORGANIZED MAY 5

With more than hundred Whiskerinos expected Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock from Auburn and Roseville, a huge mass meeting of Nevada City men has been called for that night, May 5, in Armory Hall where this city's Whiskerino club will be organized under the chairmanship of Ted Janiss.

There will be inaugurated the famous whiskerino kangaroo court, the august tribunal before which all bare faced males will be sorted out. Those presenting certificates of whisker incapacity from any certified veterinarian, will be given "exempt" cards, while those who prefer to wield the razor and pay a fine will be accomodated.

Officers of the Nevada City Whiskerino club will be elected at this meeting and their duties defined.

In Grass Valley it is noticeable that nearly as many whiskers are blossoming as in this city, and Janiss issues a cordial invitation to all candidates for membership in the Whiskekino club in Grass Valley to attend this meeting.

BIG AUDIENCE APPLAUDS TWO SENIOR DRAMAS

A good sized audience of local citizens was in attendance at the Nevada Theatre Thursday evening, when the members of the Senior Class of the Nevada City high school entertained with two plays, "Three Cornered Moon" and "The Wedding." Both productions received the plaudits of the audiences, and both were worthy of the praise they received.

The full cast of the players appeared in Monday's Nugget with the exception of one member whose name, Everett Brown, who played the part of the groomsman in "The Wedding," was inadvertently omitted.

FOREST SPRINGS PUPILS TO GIVE P. T. A. PROGRAM

The Washington School P. T. A. will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to hear a pleasant program given by groups from the Forest Springs school. The program features will be musical under the direction of Mrs. Libby. The students will provide their own scenery sets for their program. These are reported to be unusually interesting from a standpoint of both coloring and drawing. Following the program Principal Walter Carlson will give a talk on Public Schools Week. This is the week that parents are especially invited to visit the schools.

R. L. P. Bigelow In Race For State Senatorship

(By H. M. LEETE)

It was announced early this morning that R. L. P. Bigelow, who retired yesterday from the National Forest Service, in which he has, for almost 28 years, been supervisor in this, the Tahoe National Forest, will be a candidate for State Senator in the coming election.

Three counties, Nevada, Sierra and Placer, constitute this senatorial district, and in these counties no man is better known and has more friends than Bigelow. Over this area he has been the forest supervisor for over a generation. He has been the friend of every forward movement in the counties. He has cooperated with Grass Valley, Auburn, Nevada City, Downieville, in fact all the communities in, or adjoining, the Tahoe Forest in building roads, bridges, fire trails, telephone lines, recreational camps, and many another project that improved communications among the people of the mountains, protected their cities and homes from ravaging forest fires, and attracted to the mountains an ever increasing number of tourists and campers whose spending has helped to bring prosperity to the mountain counties.

Putting his shoulder to the wheel Mr. Bigelow for years advocated the Rim-of-the-Lake road along Tahoe's western shore, and the Yuba Pass road. It was largely due to his tenacity of purpose and far seeing vision that these roads were finally completed, and are today traversed by thousands of motorists, who find along those routes the most gorgeous scenery in the Sierras. These roads were perhaps the crowning achievements of the forest service in this area in the last twenty years. Several agencies of course were concerned in their construction, Federal funds other than the forest service, and state funds were drawn upon to pay the cost, but all forces had to be conciliated and co-ordinated in building the two great mountain highways, and that infatigable coordinator and co-operator was R. L. P. Bigelow.

With this announcement of his candidacy for the office for state senator, hundreds of friends will stand ready to back him in his race. There is not a man, woman or child in the three counties which he seeks to represent in state legislature, who is not a beneficiary of Mr. Bigelow's far-flung forest activities during the long years in which he was forest supervisor.

It is seldom that a man of Mr. Bigelow's character and calibre can be induced to run for public office. His candidacy affords an opportunity which the people of this district too seldom are offered, to elect a man whose devotion to the welfare of the three counties has been demonstrated in so many ways.

WORK MAY START ON DEBRIS DAMS IN NINETY DAYS

Late word from Congressman Harry L. Englebright is to the effect that prospects are bright for the beginning of construction on the debris dams on the Yuba, Bear and Middle and North Forks of the American rivers within 90 days.

With the appropriation of sufficient funds for the first year's construction works passed the senate, the War Appropriations Bill, of which the dam funds are a part, is now in a house conference awaiting changes and additions to projects other than the debris dams. Having received the recommendation of both houses and the War Department, under whose jurisdiction the dams will be built, Englebright feels that construction will start shortly after July 1st, this year, when the funds become available.

Arising to a situation, which vice-president C. E. Clark of California Hydraulic Mining Association, says. "May never come to us again," placer mining interests throughout the state have signed up far more yardage than is sufficient to pay for the construction of the dams but the sign-up is being continued so as to give the smaller operator an equal opportunity for storage and to give an idea as to future storage that will be necessary.

SIERRA COUNTY MINE SOLD TO SYNDICATE

The Alaska, formerly the Sierra-Alaska mine of Pike City one of Sierra county's notable producers, with a record of grossing $1,650,000 for former operators, has been sold to a syndicate of Los Angeles, New York and Chicago interests. Richard Travers, of Los Angeles, who announced the deal, said the 150 ton mill, 150 horse power double drum hoist, shops, boarding house and other surface buildings are in good condition.

Mr. R. C. Eisenhauer, engineer, had another company developing the property over a period of several months but they closed last spring when they found they could not give their undivided attention to operations, as they were operating other mines in the west. This company spent several thousand dollars reconditioning the surface buildings and equipment, re-timbered the shaft collar, and repaired the drain tunnel. Underground streams producing a heavy flow of water hindered operations and closed the mine years ago, and when it is understood high grade or jewelry rock was uncovered in blasting operations. Larger pumps and present methods of mining will overcome obstacles which hindered development in the past.

The property consists of 450 acres having more than two miles of underground workings. Development has gone to the 600 foot level. R. C. Eisenhauer, engineer, who recently examined the property believes four of the six veins probably join around the 200 foot level where high values should be found. It is stated work is to start at once.

RAIL BOARD TO HALT UNLICENSED TRUCK TRAFFIC

Herbert W. Kerrigan, statistician for the California Railroad Commission, was in Nevada and Sierra counties Monday and Tuesday making a check of unlicensed trucks which are using the highways. He states that in a very short time inspectors for the commission will be in this field to tag unlicensed truck operators and put a stop to their illegal activities.

He stated that to bring about orderly competition, to place every trucking corcern and individual truck owner on an equal basis of rate making and a decent living profit, and to give the shipper and the public a dependable, uninterrupted highway service for the transportation of property at reasonable rates, the Highway Carriers and the City Carriers Acts were decided upon. These give power to the Railroad Commission to regulate the use of public highways by motor vehicles operating for profit.

And this is precisely what the Railroad Commission is now attempting to do. Commission representatives are going into the field to aid the truck operators and to facilitate the filing of applications, which must be made with insurance policies attached, and must be sent to the Transportation Department, State Building. San Francisco.

WHISKERINOS

Mr. Ted Janiss, chairman of the Whiskerino Club of Nevada City, spoke for ten minutes Tuesday evening before the 20-30 Club of Grass Valley. Mr. Janiss talked on the Whiskerino Club and his remarks were received with enthusiasm. He expects a 100 per cent whiskerino response from Grass Valley. There were a number of persons at the meeting with handsome beards.

Miss Katherine Celio left Wednesday for Los Angeles with friends and will spend a few days in the southern city.

Need For An Organized Majority

(By ROLAND E. TOGNAZZINI)

It becomes more and more evident, as time goes on, that the organizing of the unorganized majority of people is absolutely essential if our present form of government is to continue. More and more do we notice the inroads that organized selfish minority groups are making into the established and peaceful order of social things. A case directly in point, and one that involves San Francisco and the State of California, is that the water-front, and more particularly, one Harry Bridges.

Here is a case where one man, not even an American citizen, with a relatively small organized group consisting of not more than 4,000 members, for reasons best known to himself, was able to stop completely the activities of one of the greatest industries that this city nurtures and one of the greatest on the Pacific coast—the shipping industry.

Not only does this industry suffer directly, but indirectly the entire citizenry of this city and this state become affected. And why? Because of the activities of one well organized minority group. At a recent meeting held in Sacramento where there was gathered the more radical elements of society this statement was made:

"The organized minorities are in the majority, and some day soon they will get together and then we can accomplish our purposes."

It goes without saying that the great preponderance of society is a peace-loving, hard-working, law-abiding group. Engrossed in their own affairs it is natural that their perspective is limited and does not permit them to appreciate the significance of the unceasing activities of the selfish minority groups whose objectives in creating chaos and confusion are threatening their very security.

Where they wish to carry the American citizen no one knows. What they can accomplish one knows less. What we do know is that nowhere in the civilized world of today is there a form of government which gives to its people the freedom and security that our constitutional form of government gives to us. Nowhere is there a country whose citizens enjoy such a high standard of living as do those in our United States.

Yet, with no example to point to, this ever increasing army of destructionists is coercing and enticing and inflaming our people into a frame of mind where they would destroy the very thing that has permitted them to occupy their enviable position—equalley nowhere in the world today.

Therefore, it is apparent that the work of an organization such as The California Crusaders, which proposes to organize the unorganized majorities and band them into a militane group of citizens mindful and respectful of our form of government and desirous of maintaining and protecting it, is essential. IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT IT BE DONE NOW!

Who's Ox?

(Contributed)

Frequently one hears John R. Public voice the comment: "I'm not a taxpayer. I don't own any property."

There are no tax-exempt persons in this country today. There is no immunity tax for any citizen.

Our indirect taxes alone amount to nearly $300 a year for each person. These are extracted from you when you purchase tobacco, liquor, gasoline, utility service, clothing, groceries, or pay rent.

Everyone seems to be in favor of reducing taxes. Your problem is where to begin to cut. Whose ox is to be gored? Lewis W. Douglas, in a study of federal expenditures and financing entitled: "There's a Way Out," shows total expenditures for 122 years from 1789 to 1911 amounted to $22,452,000. During the first three years of the New Deal the cost was $22,371,882,790.

From 1914 to 1934, all our California population increased 113 per cent. Our basic income from industry increased 150 per cent, while our taxes increased 438 per cent. Total taxes collected from California from federal, state and local government in 1935, was $550,000,000.

The people decide what functions the government shall perform. We should determine how much the expenditures shall be, and how they shall be met. We must hold the officers responsible for their action. The government on its part, must decide how the revenue shall be expended.

DEWITT NELSON FILLS BIGELOW OFFICE HERE

S. B. Show, Regional Forester of the Forest Service in Region Five, has announced that Forest Supervisor DeWitt Nelson will be placed in charge of the Tahoe National Forest upon the retirement of Forest Supervisor Richard L. P. Bigelow on May 1.

Forest Supervisor DeWitt Nelson is a graduate of the University of Iowa at Ames, having taken the forestry course. He started to work for the forest service in 1925 on the Tahoe National Forest in charge of a timber sale in Sierra County. Later he was placed as District Ranger of the Truckee District with headquarters at Truckee and held this position until 1927 when he was transferred and promoted to Deputy Supervisor of the Trinity National Forest. He was then promoted to Assistant Supervisor of the Shasta National Forest in charge of the fire control experimental district.

In 1934 he was promoted to Forest Supervisor of the Trinity National Forest and later in the same year was transferred as Forest Supervisor to the Shasta National Forest. In 1935 he was transferred to the San Bernardino National Forest as Forest Supervisor, which position he held for only a few months when his serevices were needed in San Francisco and he was placed at the Presidio as liaison officer between the forest service and other agencies and the United States army.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Nelson is in the East at the present time on Civilian Conservation Corps business he will not be able to take immediate charge of the Tahoe National Forest until about June 1. Until he arrives Associate Logging Engineer Belknap C. Goldsmith will be in charge as acting forest supervisor.

Mr. Nelson is well known on the Tahoe National Forest and to many users of this forest, especially in the Truckee district and at Nevada City. He has had a vast experience in forest service work especially along executive lines. He is a man of fine personality and made many friends before he left the Tahoe National Forest in 1927 for a higher position. The Tahoe force is exceedingly pleased with Mr. Show's choice of forest supervisor to follow Mr. Bigelow as they feel that the same policies will be carried on that have been the rule on the Tahoe National Forest for many years.

Forest Supervisor and Mrs. Nelson lived in Nevada City through one winter soon after they were married and made many friends here who will welcome them upon their arrival.

MINE CABIN LOCK BROKEN

While Norman and Charlie Kistle were out on their mining property, Green Mountain, located east of the Murchie mine, last Sunday they found someone had broken the locks on the cabin and tunnel doors. Nothing had been molested, but the Kistle brothers are making an effort to apprehend the party or parties who broke into the cabin and tunnel.

BASEBALL OPENS AT NOR. SAN JUAN

(By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE)

The North San Juan baseball boys officially opened the season in this district last Sunday with a spang-up, big-league stuff game with the Forest Hill team. Mayor Gordon Kessler started the game by throwing the first ball to Mike Denike with Judge Lewis Woods as catcher. Mike stood calm and collected with bat in approved poise ready for action while two wild balls tangled with the chicken wire around the back stop. But the third ball was a honey and the bat connected and Mr. Denike was off to first base. Without a doubt the world lost a good trackman when Mike decided to become a bartender.

Forest Hill was first up with the hickory but Elmo Dudley pitching for the San Juan team, leisurely went about his business and outside of walking a left handed husky the first half was a blank. The last half was useless for the Ridge team also.

Dudley began the second inning by sending the Forest Hill boys back to the foot of the line up scoreless. At the beginning of the last of the second Left Aiken pounded the plate with burning ambition but slowly fanned out. Then Andy Yori made a run to first and stole second. Francis Reader, next up, tipped a fly and out. Edgar Cunningham sent one out in the wild oats and made second while Yori hit the grit for home. Chuck Cameron made two bases, stole one and Cunningham brought the score up to two.

Dudley methodically set to work again in the beginning of the third and the score remained two. In the second half Everett Kessler struck a fly out to centerfield that dropped in the well. Pete Miller, midget southpaw, was smacked in the ankle with a low ball and limped to first. Left Aikens struck a fly and Miller was able to steal a base with a dented soup bone.

Young Dudley, never losing his confidence for a moment put ditto marks under the first of the fourth. In the last half Yori again landed safe on first. Francis Reader, another south paw, turned one loose in the pasture and Yori started for second. He should have slid in but tried to take it standing up and was tapped out. Reader sent one square into the second base glove. Lefty Aikens buried one above the spring and made two bases and Chuck Cameron struck out and so ended the fourth.

The first of the fifth was the same old story for the Forest Hill team. Most of these boys were sprouting long miner's beards but Dudley kept them shaved, even if his San Juan support failed to score again. In the first of the sixth the Forest Hill boys came to bat with a couple of well placed hits and put two runs across the plate tying the score two all. Both teams then settled down to a hard fought pitchers battle up until the first of the ninth when Forest Hill scored twice and the final count was four to two.

Sunday May 3, the Ridge boys will play at Colfax.

RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

Arthur C. Tibert and his sister, Alberta Tibert, who were arrested at Truckee last Sunday night on a charge of kidnapping Tibert's daughter, and who were lodged in the Nevada County jail were released from custody Tuesday afternoon, as the result of a $500 bond guaranteeing their surrender to the state of Nevada, received by Sheriff Tobiassen in the event the governor of that state grants extradition and honored by a warrant for their return to Nevada by Governor Merriam. The bond was executed by Los Angeles people approved by court authorities there.

Jones and Finnegan of Nevada City represented them in this county before Judge Mobley where a warrant for their arrest as fugitives from justice, issued on complaint of District Attorney Vernon Stoll is pending.

Founding Of California Missions, Epic Event

California's famous old Missions, with their historical and romantic backgrounds, annually attract thousands of visitors. Twenty one Franciscan Missions were founded by the Rev. Fray Junipero Serra and his colleagues extending from San Diego to what now is Sonoma county, Some are in ruins, others have been restored, all are preserved as priceless landmarks. Because of recent widespread revival of interest in the old missions, Earl Lee Kelly, Director of the Department of Public Works, at the request of Governor Frank F. Merriam, has prepared for the benefit of visitors, brief histories of them with directions on how to reach them over California highways. For the purposes of this series, the Missions will be taken up in order of their location from south to north rather than in the sequence of their building. The first installment follows:

California's twenty one Franciscan Missions were established by members of the Order of Friars Minor, led and inspired by Fray Miguel Joseph Serra, famous in history as Father Junipero Serro.

St. Francis of Assisi, Italy, founded the Order of Friars Minor, better known as the Order of Franciscan monks, in 1209. It is a missionary brotherhood bound together by the vows of poverty, obedience and chastity. Leaders of the order in the 17th century conceived plans for a communal mission life in which friars might create protected establishments and gather about them in family groups, aboriginal people among whom they worked. Experimented with for the first time at Sinaloa, Mexico, in 1611 the plan proved successful and was adopted by the Jesuit Order in Lower California The system was perfected by the Franciscans in Alta (Upper) California, which is now the state of California.

To Father Serra belongs the credit for the far flung perfect mission system which played so large a part in the early history of this state.

BECAME FRIAR AT 17

Born in humble circumstances on the Island of Majorca in 1713, Miguel Joseph Serra entered the Franciscan Order before he was seventeen. He took the name of Junipero out of reverence for the chosen companion of St. Francis and as a youth dedicated himself to missionary work. It was not until 1749, however, that the opportunity for service in foreign fields came to him. In that year, to his unbounded joy, he and Father Francesco Palou, his friend and biographer, were appointed members of a group of priests requested by the College of San Fernando, Mexico, for duty in the New World.

Of Father Serra's long and arduous trip from Majorca to the City of Mexico much has been written by that faithful chronicler, Father Palou, and many historians and writers. It is related that when Father Serra arrived at Vera Cruz so eager was he to plunge into his new apostolic duties that he would not wait for the mules and wagons, which were to transport him and his colleagues to Mexico City, and which had been delayed and so set out on foot for his destination. He paid dearly for his impetuosity. An ulcer developed in one of his legs and throughout his life he suffered from it. On several occasions the infection brought him near to death .

JESUITS EXPELLED

Father Serra engaged in missionary work in Mexico for nearly nineteen years and then was rewarded by appointment as president of the Missions of California, which, following expulsion of the Jesuits in 1768, had passed into the control of the Franciscans. There were thirteen of these missions, all in Lower California. Father Serra was fifty-five years of age when his chance to extend the missions to Upper California came.

Jose de Galvez, had been sent out to New Spain by Carlos III as visitador general of the provinces with instructions to establish military posts at San Diego and Monterey to prevent encroachment of the English and Russians. Announcing organization of an expedition into the north, Galvez stated that its purpose was to "establish the Catholic faith among a numerous heathen people, submerged in the obscure darkness of paganism, and to extend the dominion of the King, our Lord, and protect this peninsula from the ambitious views of foreign nations."

Assembling his forces at Santa Ana, near La Pez, Galvez Father Serra, then at Loreto came to him. Junipero enthusiastically made the long trip to Santa Ana and inspired by the prospect of a great new missionary field, joined up with Galvez.

FORCE DIVIDED

The soldier and the priest decided that the expedition should be divided and sent to San Diego in two sections, one by land and one by sea. Three ships, the San Carlos, the San Antonio and San Joseph, carrying troops and four missionaries, sailed from La Paz on January 9, February 15 and June 16, 1769, in the order named.

Driven off her course by storms, the San Carlos arrived at San Diego twenty days after the San Antonio, although she had sailed five weeks earlier, and of her crew all but one sailor and the cook had succumbed to scurvy and many of the soldiers had died. The San Antonio lost eight of her crew from the same disease. The St. Joseph was lost at sea.

The land expedition was divided into two divisions under Captain Fernando Rivera y Moncade and Governor Don Gaspar de Portola. Captain Moncade led the advance detachment and Portola followed. Father Serra was to have accompanied the governor, but when the date of departure came his ulcerous leg kept him in bed and Portola went on without him.

FATHER SERRA SUFFERS

It was not until March 28, several weeks later, that Father Serra with two soldiers and a servant set out on muleback to overtake the expedition. He suffered greatly en route, but caught up with Portola. His condition became so grave that the governor besought him to return to San Fernando for treatment. This Junipera would not do. His life was despaired of.

And then, records Father Palou, the indomintable Serra, after offering up a prayer, called one of the muleters and said to him: "Son, do you not know how to make a remedy for the ulcer on my foot and leg?" And the muleteer answered: "Father, how should I know of any remedy? Am I a surgeon? I am a mule-driver, and can only cure harness wounds on animals." "Then, son," Father Serra directed, "consider that I am an animal and that this ulcer is a harness wound and prepare for me the same medicament as you would make for a beast."

Unwillingly, the muleteer obeyed, applied his preparation to the infected leg and to the astonishment of all, the good Father slept that night and the next morning was able to resume the journey.

After many hardships, Portola reached San Diego on July 1, 1769. There he found Moncada and his force and the San Carlos and San Antonio with the surviving members of the sea expedition. And there Father Serro found his new field of endeavor of which he long had dreamed.

Next: Mission San Diego de Alcala.

DANCE IS POSTPONED BECAUSE OF DEATH

On account of the death of Norvyn Kirkham, Junior Sagamore of the Improved Order of Red Men, on Wednesday afternoon, the dance scheduled for Wednesday evening by Wyoming Tribe was postponed. A fraternal social affair was held. Mr. E. R. Ramme rendered several piano selections. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

On May 16 the Great Sachem Farrenkopf of Southern California will visit Wyoming Tribe at which time a class adoption will be held. The crack drill team of the local tribe will exemplify the ritual. The grand sachem will be accompanied by other great chiefs. Members of Weimer Tribe of Grass Valley have been extended an invitation to attend.

Funeral services will be held for the deceased from the chapel of the Holmes Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Pine Grove cemetery.

LEGISLATORS FOR A DAY TO VOTE ON MANY ISSUES

(By RALPH H. TAYLOR)

Every California voter who has fervently declared, during some bitter moment of legislative disillusionment, that "I'd like to be a legislator for just 24 hours," will have the long desired opportunity this year!

The opportunity will be afforded at California's general election on November 3.

Some 3,000,000 voters—all legislators for a day—will march to the polls that day to pass on a slate of legislation which would give the average lawmaker a severe case of political chills and fever.

According to all present indications, the general election ballot will break all records in direct legislation, via initiative and referendum, with more vital measures being submitted to the voters than were ever submitted to a state legislature on even the busiest day of a busy session.

In addition to 19 proposals already qualified for the public's legislative field day, including 14 suggested constitutional amendments proposed by the legislature, 3 initiative measures and 2 referendum acts, 10 other initiatives have been titled by the attorney general, preparatory to circulation of initiative petitions. And 4 others are in the offing, soon to be submitted for title.

Making due allowance for measures which will fall by the wayside and fail to qualify, due to lack of public support or adequate financing there is still every reason to expect the longest ballot in the state's history—and one of the most important!

New proposals titled by the Attorney General—probably half of which will roll up the necessary 187,000 petition signatures and secure places on the ballot—include:

1. The alcoholic beverage control and tax amendment, divorcing liquor control from the State Board of Equalization and giving city councils and county boards of supervisors a direct voice in control of the liquor traffic. This amendment, sponsored by the Board of Equalization and a majority of the senate and assembly committees investigating the liquor problem, is expected to draw the support of moderate "drys" as well as branches of the liquor industry which believe in strict regulation of their business.

2. A local option prohibition amendment, giving both cities and counties the right to "dry up" their areas by vote of the people. Supported by "bone drys" as the first move in the "Repeal Repeal" drive. Also supported by some municipal and county officers, who desire a maximum measure of local control.

3. Tidelands Drilling Act, permitting the drilling of oil wells in the tidelands of the famous Huntington Beach pool under certain limitations.

4. Social security act. Probably will fail to qualify for lack of signatures.

5. Repeal of Criminal Syndicalism Act; also will probably fail to qualify.

6. Initiative prohibiting wagering on horse races; still undetermined whether proponents will force this measure to vote.

7. Act exempting taxes on homes and homesteads up to $3,500 valuation.

8. Gross Income or Transaction Tax, in lieu of all other state and local taxes; this measure will either be submitted via initiative, or will be held over for action of next legislature.

9. Limitation on state expenditures; limits biennial appropriations of legislature to amount equaling $35 per capita of state population, with provision for protecting school apportionments as now made.

10. Pound regulation act, sponsored by humane society groups.

In addition to these measures, already titled, other proposals, dealing with regulation of sardine catches off the California coast, gas tax diversion, and civil service—are reported in the making. The civil service proposal would make civil service compulsory for all city and county as well as state employees. Still another measure which may be submitted is the One House Legislature plan.

Warming for the fray, both proponents and opponents of some of the major ballot proposals, previously qualified, are already in the field, with the anti-"Single Tax" battle, the chain store campaign and the fight over the state income tax holding the center of the stage.

And California voters, ho take their assignment seriously as "legislators for a day," can well afford to start early in their study of the crowded slate. The welfore of every industry—and virtually every citizen in the state—is affected by many of the 30-odd measures which will be submitted to the voter roll call.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS TO ENJOY OUTDOOR SUPPER

The Epworth League of Nevada City will enjoy its first outdoor social event of the season when its members gather tomorrow for an evening hike and picnic supper. The Leaguers will gather at 5:30 at the Methodist Church and will walk to some nearby scenic spot where the games will be played. Supper will be enjoyed around a campfire before the return home.

A dime charge will be made for each participant, to cover expenses. Friends of the Epworth League of high school age or above are cordially invited to take part in the outing. It will be postponed only in the event of inclement weather.

Social Events

Shower Given in Honor of Mrs. Hutton

Mrs. Helen Page and Mrs. Ruby McLain entertained last Friday afternoon with a shower in honor of Mrs. Frank Hutton, of Wet Hill.

A doll buggy was artistically decorated with pink and white crepe paper and the gifts wrapped in the same colors, placed in the buggy and taken to the home of Mrs. Hutton. After visiting for a time with Mrs. Hutton the group went to the home of Mrs. Kitty Williamson across the street where dainty refreshments were served. A pink and white color scheme was used throughout the cosy rooms and table. Tiny gum drop candlestick favors added to the prettily arranged table.

Those present were: Mrs. Frank Hutton, Margaret Reynolds, Gladys and Lillie Gillespie, Doris Ward, Rose Campbell, Mary Hutton, Lucille Krough, Kitty Williamson, Ella Costa, Mabel Carter, Helen Page and Ruby McClain.

The Fred E. Conners Are Hosts at "The Cedars"

Mrs. June Radcliffe of North Sacramento and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Oregon, who were visiting her, spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Conner at their summer home. "The Cedars," near Sweetland.

"The Cedars" is named from a group of 12 incense cedars just back of the Conner summer home planted by Judge W. L. Mobley's father. F. F. Mobley over 65 years ago. Four of the trees are gone, but Mr. Mobley planted them 16 feet apart and called them the Twelve Apostles. The trees are about 100 feet tall and three to four feet in thickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Conner built their cottage in front of the cedars in 1926. They have a mineralized spring of ice cold water nearby, and enjoy a cook stove and camp beds under the cedars during summer time.

MINSTREL SHOW AT NOR. SAN JUAN TONIGHT

Public School Week is not needed in California to guarantee that all ambitious people, young and olds, shall be properly educated. But it is greatly needed to give the parents and guardians of pupils and students an opportunity to find out what the schools are doing for their children. Public School Week brings parents and teachers into a mutual understanding of today's child —tomorrow's citizen.

This Friday evening, May 1, the North San Juan school is giving a minstrel show and to celebrate public school week the children's work will be exhibited in Twamley Hall. All of the schools in this district have been invited to display their work. This will enable friends and parents to examine the exhibits before and after the show. Mr. Thomas O. McCraney will deliver the address of the evening.

SENTENCED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Mrs. Dick Ellis, alias Mrs. B. Gallop is in the county jail serving a 30 day sentence for reckless driving. It is alleged that she was intoxicated when arrested Tuesday night by a member of the highway patrol. She was brought to Nevada City by Deputy Sheriff Tom Dolly.

We Miss A Friend-- After He's Gone

The Narrow Gauge has been operating sixty years. It has been the reliable, dependable, transportation agency that has linked Grass Valley with the outside world for six decades.

Grass Valley relies on the Narrow Gauge to handle certain heavy and difficult shipments. We believe that if the Narrow Gauge should cease operation tomorrow, its service would be badly missed.

Sometimes we get so used to a friend that we forget him for newer acquaintances of less merit. But we miss him when he's gone.

So it is with the Narrow Gauge.

With a coordinated bus, truck, and rail line service to and from Nevada City and Grass Valley, linking these communities with the other communities of the nation, through connections with major railroad systems, the Narrow Gauge has a service for your every transportation need. These services are provided at reasonable cost.

Remember when tempted by temporary bargains, false savings of a few cents or a few dollars, offered occasionally by newer acquaintances—that the Narrow Gauge has been operating at the same old stand for sixty years, and that it is important to the community that it continue to operate at the same old stand.

Remember that the Narrow Gauge is a home industry, and that money it earns here, is spent here.
